MILE A MINUTE CLIP IN CLOUDS

ENGLISHMAN GRAHAM WHITE, WINS WORLD'S AVIATION SPEED CHAMPIONSHIP.

TWO MACHINES WRECKED

Breakdowns Were Going 85 Miles an Hour in Wright Biplane When He Lost Control—Le Blanc Struck
Telegraph Pole.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Bentley Park, Oct. 29.—Up to 11 o'clock only four aviators had attempted the race for the world's championship over a course of 42.1 miles. Of these, one—the Englishman Graham White—finished, going the distance in one hour, one minute, four and three-hundredths seconds in his 100 H. P. biplane.

On almost the last lap Le Blanc collided with a telegraph pole. His machine was wrecked and he was slightly injured.

Breakdowns lost control after going 1000 feet. His Wright biplane was wrecked and he was hurt slightly. Graham White claims he had attained a speed of 85 miles an hour when he met with the accident.

White gave up after a short flight. The fifth competitor was Herbert Latham of the French team but he got such a fright when the wind almost blew him into the crowd that he quit precipitately in the fifteenth round.

It now looks very much as if the Gordon Bennett International speed trophy would pass out of America to rest in English hands.

CAPETOWN PLANS A BIG DEMONSTRATION

For Duke of Connaught Who Comes Monday to Attend Opening of First South African Parliament.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cape Town, Oct. 29.—From every part of the Transvaal, the Orange River Colony, Natal and Cape Colony pilgrims are making their way today to Cape Town to take part in the well-known here on Monday of the Duke of Connaught, who comes to attend the opening of the first parliament of the South African Union. Preparations which have been under way for months are virtually completed, and when the royal party land from the liner Balmoral Castle, which is conveying them from England, the machinery will be set in motion for what is expected to be the most remarkable demonstration of its kind ever seen in this part of the world.

The Duke of Connaught is accompanied by the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia. The royal party is attended by a numerous suite which includes Lord Hamilton of Dalzell, Sir Francis Hopwood, Commander R. E. G. Wemyss, Captain T. H. Rivers Bulkeley and several others.

Immediately after landing the Duke of Connaught will be escorted to the City Hall, where he will be officially welcomed by Viscount Gladstone, Governor-General of the South African Union, Premier Botha and other leading public men of the country. In the evening there will be a private dinner at Government House.

The week that the royal party will spend in Cape Town will be crowded with notable functions, the chief of which, of course, will be the opening of parliament next Friday. Other functions and ceremonies in which His Royal Highness will participate will be a grand military review at Green Point Common, the opening of the South African Medical Congress, the inauguration of the Selborne Dock at Simonstown, and the laying of the foundation stone of University Hall.

After leaving Cape Town the royal party will travel to Bloemfontein by train which has been specially built for the occasion by the Central South African Railway. The Victoria Falls journey will be continued to Salisbury and Bulawayo. One of the curious features of the visit to Northern Rhodesia will be the reception of Lewanika, chief of Barotseland, with a parade of Barotseland police.

On November 20 the party will reach Pretoria. Practically a week will be spent in the Transvaal capital and Johannesburg. The following week will be spent in Pietermaritzburg and Durban. At Durban the royal visitors will re-embark in the Balmoral Castle for the return journey to England.

LORD KITCHENER TO BE BEST MAN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Oct. 29.—Lord Kitchener, the most distinguished bachelor in the United Kingdom, is to go to the altar next week, but needless to state it will not be as a bridegroom. He has consented to act as best man at the wedding of another celebrated military officer, General Sir Archibald Hunter, whose marriage to Mary Lady Inverclyde is to be celebrated Tuesday at St. George's, Hanover Square.

KING GEORGE ALSO IS SUPERSTITIOUS

No Pains Will Be Spared to Make Coronation Ceremonies Next June
Free From Unlucky Influence.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Oct. 29.—King George is particularly anxious that his coronation ceremonies next June should be free from any untoward incident which might be construed as ominous. This is not alone because he himself, like all members of his house, is imbued with a certain amount of superstition, but it is likewise because he is thoroughly aware that popular coronation in himself and his reign will be shaken in the event of any occurrence at the coronation which could be construed as portending evil.

The coronations of Queen Victoria and King Edward were remarkably free from anything that could be looked upon by the people as a bad omen, though the fact that the coronation of King Edward had to be postponed on account of the illness with which the monarch was suddenly stricken led many persons to predict that his reign would be short.

At the coronation of George IV, the Marquis of Anson, officiating as lord high steward, while carrying the crown to the altar let it slip from his hands. When George III, was installed on the throne, Lord Edgborough, master of ceremonies, forgot to provide the sword of state and the chair and canopy for the banquet. At the coronation of George II, the Dean of Westminster forgot the chalice and paten, and at the coronation of the ill-fated James I, the communion service was omitted.

At the coronation of Charles I, the wing of the dove on Edward the Confessor's scepter was broken off accidentally. And the Bishop of Carlisle, in preaching the coronation sermon, in preaching his text, "I will give thee a crown of life," a text which put everybody in mind of the funeral service, in which it so frequently figures, it may be remembered that King Charles lost his head on the scaffold.

It is also well to remember, in reading of those gloomy prophecies of doom, that such incidents are seldom thought of until an untoward incident has occurred. Then the superstitions mind seeks some occurrence to serve the purpose of an omen, a thing not hard to find, since almost every occasion is attended by some unfortunate accident.

On the 28th ballot, taken this morning, they were called into the court room about this time and told there was a chance of agreement and the jury was sent back. Two more ballots were taken but there was no change, and at noon the jurors filed into court, reported disagreement and were discharged.

States Attorney Burke declared the case would be retried at once, and that it would probably be the first criminal case set for the November term.

was held here until close to 10 o'clock to await the delayed freight.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Famous Tenor Who Sang For
"Both Sides."

Magnificent Performances of Italo
Campanini on a Memorial Day
In New York Twenty-seven Years Ago.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

"Endowed with a true tenor voice of great power and sweetness, he was equally equipped to sing lyric and dramatic parts; but he shone especially in roles demanding manly passion and fervor." Thus, an authority has written of Italo Campanini, who made his American debut with Christiano Nilsson in 1873 and thereafter, for years, was the most popular operatic tenor of his day in the country.
"He will have no successor," wrote the late Charles A. Dana at the time of Campanini's death in 1899. But this anecdote relates neither to Campanini's great operatic career nor his death; it is simply a story of the time he sang for "both sides" on a Memorial day twenty-seven years ago.

A few days before this particular celebration was held—it was in New York city—a friend went to Campanini and asked him if he would sing at it. At once the great tenor's face lighted with real pleasure.

"It is to sing for your soldiers, the men who fought in the great war?"
he said. "Ah! they were true soldiers! They were brave in battle on both sides. I love to hear about them. I was a soldier myself!"

He pointed to the great scar that he carried across his face.
"I am very proud of that," he said.
"I was one of the thousands who landed at Marsala with Garibaldi. I was fourteen at the time, and I got this wound then. Ah, I know what it is to be a soldier! Yes, yes. I will sing, I will sing for your soldiers on both sides."

And so it happened that at the appointed hour Campanini, the idol of the country's music lovers, stood before the great audience of old soldiers and their friends who had gathered to honor the country's fallen heroes. For a moment he looked anxiously about him, then turned to the chairman. "But I see no one who is to accompany me on the piano,"
he whispered.

A call was made for a volunteer and out of that expectation throng there arose and went forward a woman. She introduced herself as Rose d'Erina, herself a great vocalist. "I will gladly accompany Campanini," she said, and seating herself at the piano, struck the first chords of the accompaniment to the great martial song of "Il Trovatore." It was a song in which Campanini had advanced some of his greatest triumphs, and though but few in the audience had ever heard the opera sung, in all probability, all immediately recognized the warlike notes, and the house became as still as death itself.

As for Campanini, it was plain to see that he had been fired with martial ardor as those first notes came unexpectedly to his ears. And then, looking every inch the soldier of Garibaldi that he was, he sang the thrilling music superbly, taking the high C with a purity and a distinct-ness of utterance that caused the audience to rise to its feet as one man, and a moment later, to shout itself hoarse when the chairman of the meeting called for "three cheers for the Italian patriot who fought with Garibaldi!"

It was at the height of this enthusiasm that Campanini turned to a friend.

"You have heard me sing this song many times," he said. "You will never hear me sing it again as I have sung it this afternoon. I shall never again gain the hearts of my hearers as I have done this day. For I was a real soldier when I sang it. And I sang it for the brave soldiers who fought in the great battles of your war, and I sang it for both sides alike."

ENGLISH SUBMARINE "D 1" FITTED WITH WIRELESS.

London, Eng.—The "D 1," which is the largest submarine in the world, is the first vessel of its kind to be fitted with wireless telegraphy. Experiments have proved that wireless communication can be kept up beneath ordinary war vessels and submarines running submerged, the submarines being able not only to receive messages while under water, but to answer them.
Thus orders can be conveyed by wireless from the ship to submerged submarines, or from one submerged submarine to another. It will be noted that the new "wireless" mast is rather less than twice the height of the periscope, which is beside it. The apparatus is submerged as far as the periscope.

Two Great Cars

The E-M-F and the FLANDERS

We have never yet met the engineer, or anybody else, who criticized the E-M-F successfully. They regard it as the best car for the money they have ever seen. Some of them, many of them in fact, go farther and say it is better than most cars at twice the price. That is all due to knowledge of construction, knowledge of engineering balance and the facilities and materials to work with. Come up sometime, take a walk through our garage and you'll see things that will surprise you. And that simple visit will make you a convert to the E-M-F quicker than printer's ink will do it. You'll see the INSIDES and it's a car's insides that make it sweet running and durable. We say it is the best car in the world at anywhere near its price and we defy anybody to deny it—successfully.

And the same line of talk covers the Flanders. It is a cheaper car in the way of price. But it's mighty good all through—made by the same class of workers who build the E-M-F. It is intended for those who do not care to go to large expenditure in a pleasure car, yet who want a vehicle that will look like something and last. We unhesitatingly commend both cars.

ROOT WARNS PARTY IN A HEATED TALK

SENATOR SAYS TAFT'S FATE DEPENDS ON ELECTIONS IN NOVEMBER.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT

Declares If Administration Is Defeated Roosevelt May Become G. O. P. "Moses" and Nominee in 1912 for Chief Executive.

New York, Oct. 20.—United States Senator Elihu Root, in a speech at the Manhattan Casino last night, declared that Republican defeat in New York state this fall would be taken as a repudiation of the Taft administration and the turning of the party to Roosevelt or some still more radical leader in 1912.

The speech was considered sensational in more respects than one, being a plea to Republicans not to desert the Republican party now that Taft might be the leader in 1912. He said:

"If Mr. Taft continues to make as good a president as he is making now he will be the natural and inevitable candidate of his party in 1912 unless one thing happens—that the people of the United States shall repudiate the administration of Mr. Taft by such a crushing and overwhelming defeat of his party this November that it will be apparent that Mr. Taft cannot be re-elected.

Warns Roosevelt's Foes.
Mr. Root addressed himself particularly to those Republicans who might stand willing to vote against the Republican gubernatorial candidate for the sake of rebuking Theodore Roosevelt.

Contrary to some expectations, Senator Root brought no direct pledge from Colonel Roosevelt regarding his attitude toward the nomination in 1912.

"A good many Republicans at this time," said Senator Root, "seem disposed to ignore all the grave and substantial issues which are before the people of this state and to vote at the coming election upon no issue whatever but simply as an expression of feeling against Mr. Roosevelt, whose course regarding national affairs they disapprove for one reason or another and whom they desire to punish by defeating the party to which they belong, in which they believe, and which they have long loyally supported, because he holds a distinguished and potent place in the councils and activities of the party."

Thinks Taft the Ideal.
"It is said that we must consider now the nomination for the presidency in 1912. Well, Mr. Taft is president of the United States; a Republican president; a strong, wise, considerate and fearless man. He has the qualities which make a man grow in the estimation of thoughtful people, and, lying back of all the clamor and excitement of our political life, the American people are thoughtful people. He has grown and is growing and will continue to grow in public esteem.

"After election people don't scrutinize the multitude of reasons which may have contributed to the result. See Peril Ahead.

"They see only the general result and if it should happen that the administration cannot hold its own party together the national convention would be quite likely to look for a Moses to lead them out of the wilderness and they might go to Mr. Roosevelt, or they might go to one of the far more radical leaders, who are now looming on the political horizon in the north and middle west. Make no mistake, my friends, so far as this election in the state of New York bears any relation to national affairs, Republican votes for the Republican ticket strengthen the administration in the party and Republican votes against the ticket tend to weaken and break down the administration. No one understands this better than Mr. Roosevelt. No one knows better than he that the strenuous efforts he is making in behalf of the Republican candidates not merely in New York, but in a dozen of other states, are services in aid of the Taft administration and tend toward the re-election of Mr. Taft in 1912.

"The idea that Mr. Roosevelt contemplates an attack upon our judicial system or that that system is in danger from him or from anyone else is purely fanciful and devised for campaign purposes only."

Fire Destroys Most of Town.
Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 20.—The town of Roswell, about 20 miles south of here, was almost wiped out by fire. The blaze consumed the Merchants' hotel, August Bros.' clothing store, the Roswell livery stable, the opera house and at least a dozen residences. The loss is estimated at $100,000. Roswell's population is 1,500.

Discipline "Millionaire Corporal."
Washington, Oct. 20.—Albert J. Mayer, who was known while a soldier at Fort Myer, Va., as the "millionaire corporal," has been reduced to the ranks for disobedience of orders and being absent from duty without leave.

Nebraska Slayer Hanged.
Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 20.—Hort M. Taylor of Minden was hanged at the state penitentiary. He protested his innocence to the last. He was convicted of killing Pearl Taylor, nineteen years old, a sister of his deceased wife.

The Domestic Band.

TAFT TO GET ELECTION RESULTS ABOARD TRAIN

President Will Be on His Return from Cincinnati to Capital on Tuesday Next.

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Taft will receive the returns from the election of next Tuesday while traveling on a special train from Cincinnati, where he goes to vote, to this city.

Leaving Cincinnati in the early afternoon of election day, after having spent about six or seven hours there, the president probably will receive the first scattering returns showing the drift in the eastern states when he reaches Columbus shortly before six o'clock in the evening. By that hour the result in New York state, it is expected, can be accurately forecasted.

Special wires will be looped into the telegraph room at the executive offices of the White House, and bulletins will be forwarded from there to the president's train. So far as known no attempt will be made to use wireless. The train will make several unusual stops to pick up the news.

This is the first time, so far as can be recalled by White House attaches, that such a plan has had to be devised to inform a president of election returns. Heretofore it has been customary for the president and members of the cabinet to receive the returns in the library of the White House.

Reaching Washington the morning of Wednesday, November 9, the president will spend only a few hours in this city, leaving again in the afternoon for Charleston, S. C., and sailing from that city for Panama at noon November 10.

BREAKS ENDURANCE AIR MARK.

French Aviator Flies 289 Miles Without Stopping in Six Hours.

Clampes, France, Oct. 20.—Maurice Tabuteau broke the world's aviation records for time and distance by flying 289 miles in six hours in a continuous trip. He used a Farman biplane.

Tabuteau's remarkable feat was accomplished in the aerodrome here while he was trying for the Michelin cup which is awarded annually to the aviator making the longest sustained flight within the year. A premium of $4,000 goes to the winner. Rivals for the cup will have until January 1 to beat the mark set by Tabuteau.

The previous record for time and distance was held by Oilelager, the Belgian aviator, who covered 244 miles in five hours three minutes and five seconds on July 10 last.

NEGRO TO OUTRANK ARMY MEN.

Social Phase of W. H. Lewis Appointment Stir Capital.

Washington, Oct. 20.—In spite of the storm stirred over the prospective appointment of W. H. Lewis, a negro, who is now assistant to the district attorney at Boston, as assistant attorney general of the United States, the appointment will be made. One of the most striking notes sounded by the opposition has to do with the social phase of such an appointment. The rank of an assistant attorney general would give him precedence socially over brigadier generals, captains in the navy, district commissioners and a number of other high officials.

SATTERLEE'S SIGHT FAILS HIM.

J. P. Morgan's Son-in-Law Is Threatened With Loss of Eye.

New York, Oct. 20.—Herbert Satterlee, the lawyer and son-in-law of J. P. Morgan, is threatened with the loss of the sight of one of his eyes. For the past two weeks Mr. Satterlee has been confined to a darkened room in his home in Highland Falls. For a time Mr. Satterlee was threatened with the loss of sight of both eyes, but his physicians believe the sight of one will be fully restored. Mr. Satterlee's trouble is attributed to too great application to work and reading by artificial light.

HOBBLE FAD INVADERS COURT.

Woman Lawyer in New Style of Skirt Visits Supreme Tribunal.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Miss Adeline H. Burd, a lawyer of New York, threw consternation into the attaches of the Supreme court by appearing in a hobble skirt. At first there was an attempt to prevent Miss Burd from seating herself at the lawyers' table, but she explained her employment in a Kentucky land case and she was permitted to pass.

MAN BITTEN BY HORSE DIES.

Animal Mangles Collarbone of Farmer Who Feeds It.

Marion, Ill., Oct. 20.—J. T. Whitto, a farmer and stock dealer near here, died from the bite of a horse. While he was feeding the animal a few evenings ago the horse attacked him, inflicting several serious wounds and crushing his collarbone, causing an internal hemorrhage.

It is a fallacy to believe that advertising will sell anything. The store or the article advertised must first of all attract attention to it.

Madman's Break for Freedom.
A lunatic in Norristown, Pa., won his freedom the other day through a baseball match. While the game between two teams of insane patients on the lawn of the Norristown hospital for the insane was in progress, one player knocked the ball over the centerfield fence for a home run. William Reed, another inmate of the institution, who was playing in centerfield, leaped over the fence after the ball. The players waited for his return to go on with the game, but Reed failed to reappear. Then it dawned on the guards that the patient had escaped.

The Unreality of Opera.
There are people who still complain of the unreality of opera, who cannot subject themselves to its illusion. And, indeed, the illusion of opera breaks down if everything in it is not kept at the same distance from reality. In that world of musical expression we must never be suddenly lowered by any incongruous detail into the ordinary world of prose. Realism, the attempt to work upon the emotions by complete illusion of reality, is disastrous in opera. If the scene is a railway station, we remember at once that people do not sing when they are catching trains.—London Times.

MRS. BELL LAVIN.
First big arrest in Los Angeles dynamiting case.

San Francisco, Cal.—Formerly charged with complicity in the murder of the 21 men who were killed when the Los Angeles Times building was blown up with dynamite at 1 o'clock on the morning of October 1, Mrs. Bella Lavin, who conducts a rooming house at 2110 Mission street, has been placed under arrest at police headquarters.

The few minutes preceding the actual service of the warrant were dramatic. The woman strove to change her story of her relations with M. F. Schmidt, the Kansas City draftsman, now known to have been living under the names of P. A. Perry and William Morris, but her story differed materially from that told on two other occasions to Chief of Police Seymour.

The head of the local department finally lost all patience with the woman and turned her over to the Los Angeles officers, who held a "Jane Doe" warrant for her arrest. As Mrs. Lavin was in San Francisco at the time of the explosion it is only an unnecessary that she is held.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Did you ever smile homeward
At the hour of three or four,
And discover why waiting,
Simply waiting at the door?
Not a single word she uttered,
But the ice you couldn't melt.
She was waiting for a smile,
But she was waiting for a smile.
How it felt!
Have you ever reached your office
Way behind the scheduled hour
But to meet the boss' glare
Of a kind exceeding yours?
Not a word of blame or censure,
But his average mouth was shut.
He was giving you a "silence,"
But remember how it felt!
Oh, we none of us like "silence,"
And we none of us like blame.
But if harsh words are the weapons,
We can answer with the same.
Not of all the wicked methods
That can knock a fellow flat,
There is nothing like a "silence,"
For we can't get back at that!
—New York World.

The average man is not troubled with a "silence" because he is endowed with a tongue of the same calibre as was pronounced "a troublesome member," many years ago. From the noted "T. R." who has long occupied the center of the "talk-fest" stage, to his most humble admirer, the most of us talk too much.

The busiest talkers are not usually the busiest thinkers, because talking, to this class of entertainers, soon becomes physical exercise and in time the tongue works automatically, with any kind of a suggestion to wind it up and keep it in motion.

The first woman was something of a talker and her talk was convincing, but the cowardly man, who associated with her in the garden, found it convenient to shirk responsibility by claiming that "the woman tempted him," and so the race fell from its high estate.

Thus it has ever been, for while women have continued to practice the art until they have become experts in the use of the tongue, the sterner sex has always been willing to let her have the responsibility.

The little world where the average woman lives is a restricted world, and it is not surprising that "small talk" is an inevitable accessory, for woman by nature is a sociable being and in the absence of a listening ear, turns as naturally to the telephone as a duck to water.

That gossip sometimes becomes the topic of conversation is also to be expected, for no topic, except the weather, is more fruitful or more easily handled.

There are some men who break in to public and professional life every now and then, whose principal stock

In-trade is the tongue which is always wound up and ready to go on the slightest provocation.

Some of these men are politicians, and their opinion on all questions of public policy, which lies so near the surface that it never disturbs the brain, does not hesitate to give expression whenever opportunity presents.

These men settle the tariff question off-hand, and all other important questions with equal dispatch. They could run the government rainy days and Sundays, with time to spare.

Occasionally a man of this kind is found behind the sacred desk who possesses the ability of talking for forty minutes without saying anything, forgetting that the day has passed when people are not interested in the theology of a speculative future so much as they are in a helping hand over the rough places in the world about them.

What we know about the world beyond is largely a question of faith and hope which may be as solidly real as that which serves as an anchor to the soul, and holds us steady, but our knowledge of the here and now is of the practical sort based on the hard experiences of every day life.

But the rank and file of men who find it easy to talk without much thought, is not represented in either the political or clerical field. The constituency is larger and its disciples come from every walk in life.

The agitation, which has stirred up the country for the past year or two, is shared by men of all degrees of intelligence, from the man with pinhead head-gear, to the man with massive brow and flowing locks. To be sure, the former may be an echo, but he is the busiest echo that ever disturbed the atmosphere, and so we have regulation served three times a day and twice on Sunday.

There was a time when the walking delegate was monopolized by organized labor, but this monopoly no longer exists, for today he lends all kinds of processions, and while not always a good pedestrian, his vocabulary never fails him.

You find him on the corners and in the market place, discussing ably on the regulation of everything in sight, and then ordering goods of a neighbor or a friend to show him the company for the Standard Oil Company and the Sugar Trust. Consistency is not a part of his creed, but he can talk you to a standstill without effort.

It is an old saying that "silence is golden," and some silences are, the quiet that comes to the home after the busy brood of restless children are tucked away for the night is of golden hue to the tired mother.

The quiet of the ocean after the noisy storm-dashed waves have subsided, and the only sound which greets the mariner's ear is the thrub of the engine or the ripple of water as it sparkles from the bow, comes like a grateful silence to the man on the bridge.

The silence which controls a man in the heat of passion, and causes him to turn away before giving vent to anger, is a golden heritage.

But there are other silences of darker hue because they are the advance guards of disaster and possible ruin. The stillness which settles over nature just before the storm breaks, when not a leaf moves, is an index of the fury of the great disturbance soon to follow, and the ominous quiet is oppressive because of its intensity.

The quiet which comes to the home after a loved one has departed on the long journey, never to return, partakes of the nature of a tragedy, as you listen in vain for the familiar footstep and the voice forever silent.

The silences outlined in the little poem at the head of this article, are never pleasant to contemplate because they speak louder than words, and their meaning is not difficult to comprehend. The voice is not the only means of communication. The expression of a face and the demeanor of disapproval, are far more significant than the least of blasphemy or the tirade of condemnation.

Walt Mason has contributed a chapter on this subject in his new book, "Little Sunbeams," recently published. The little Sunbeams, a dignified and loving silence and paid the penalty.

"She was sweet and soft and clinging, and he always found her singing, when he came home from his labors as the night was closing in; she was languishing and slender, and her eyes were deep and tender, and he simply couldn't tell her that her coffee was a sin. Golden hair her head was crowning; she was fond of quoting Browning, and she knew a hundred legends of the olden, golden time; and her heart was full of yearning for the Rosicrucian learning, and he simply couldn't tell her that the beefsteak was a crime. She was posted on Pendergast, and she knew the source of Venice, and he listened to her prattle with an effort to look pleased; and she liked the wit of Weller—and he simply couldn't tell her that the eggs he had for breakfast had been laid by hens diseased. So she filled his home with beauty, and she did her wifely duty, did it as she understood it, and her conscience didn't hurt, when dyspepsia boldly sought him, and the sexton came and got him, and his tortured frame was buried 'neath a wagon-load of dirt. O, those marvellous misuses, thinking life all love and kisses, mist and moonshine, kilns and glamor, stardust borrowed from the skies! Man's a gross and sordid lummi—men are largely made of stomachs, and the songs of all the sirens will not take the place of pies!"

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER.
By WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

In vain, in vain the old time rules for valuing things! You take a square and other tools, a rip-saw and a hammer; you HUDSON choose material that's MAXIM strong, and plan your roof and gable, and then you build a thrilling song as you would build a stable. It's all as simple as get out, since Maxlin's explanation! What were the old time birds about, to hunt for the inspiration? The grand old poets walked abroad, by threes and sevens, and while their minds were fixed on heaven, they heard strange voices in the breeze, hard music in the willows, and there were stanzas in the trees, and cantos in the bluffs. In future times the youth will learn (or else his teacher wheedles him) that poets who desire to earn their grub must follow Maxlin. "You take a plane," the books will say, "a cork-screw and a chisel, and use those rules to build a lay, or it will be a fizzle. You do not wear a laurel wreath, to write an ode immortal; you take a saw with shining teeth, and make it hum and chortle; you mix a tub of sand and lime, you take a broom and hammer—and some may call the product rhyme and others katzenjammer."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

GET THE RIGHT CAR.

Lauren Jean Kitchel, the writer, being interviewed on marriage, says: "Marriage is like running for the street car. You run and run. You get very much excited and out of breath. Then when you have caught the car you sit down in your seat and you are not excited any more. You are just quiet and satisfied."

The simile is an apt one. The undue haste of many modern marriages is fully compared with a breathless run after the street car—both unnecessary.

Look at them—Here is one who has barely reached the platform of the matrimonial rapid transit line when he discovers he is on the wrong car. While he makes a great fuss about it, another, having made a like discovery, quietly drops off at the next stop.

"Quiet and satisfied?" Why, some of these get-married-quick passengers have ridden scarcely a block before they discover their mistake and—event before they pay their fare—demand a transfer!

And the conductor grunts it. Some of the matrimonial tourists do not even wait for the car to stop, but tumble off pell mell, spilling their tempers and pouring their reputations, affording inextinguishable laughter to the gods of matrimonial misdeeds.

And some—these are mostly women passengers—get off backward.

Many of the hurry-in-haste fares turn into grumbling strap holders, who will not be either grateful or satisfied.

Even when provided with fair accommodations they continue to find fault with the schedules or the road-bed or the ventilation.

And once in awhile a rash individual unthinkingly refuses to pay the fare and is ineffectually shoved off.

And yet—For one who refuses to pay or finds fault or jumps off what a lot of happy passengers travel the line!

"These are the ones who waited for the right car, knew where and when to get on and where the line ran.

Why run for the car?" "There will be another along presently—and the one you wait for may be the better car."

Wait! Wait until you can read the sign or see the light.

And, being on, stay!

WHEN YOUR WIFE FAINTS

New Method of Resuscitation More Effective Than Usual Way of Applying Friction.

When my wife faints, which is miserably often, I do not apply friction in the usual absurd way—rubbing backward and forward, which must alternately check and accelerate the passage of the blood—but taking hold of one of her hands with my left hand I place the thumb and finger of my right hand tight around her wrist and pass them firmly up toward her elbow. Having brought them back loosely to the wrist I pass them firmly up again, and when I have repeated the operation two or three times, sometimes on both arms, I have the pleasure of hearing the ejaculation, "I feel better now." When I first had recourse to this means of resuscitating my lady she exclaimed instinctively on two different occasions, without being at all aware that I had had any particular intention, "Oh, that is what I seem to want."

From the invariable and immediate effect of this mode of friction I flatter myself that it is not unworthy the notice of the medical practitioner in the friction of cholera patients, a process which should be much oftener resorted to and more energetically persisted in than it generally is.—Letter to the Lancet.

A Social Duty.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Its superiority is unquestioned
Its fame world-wide
Its use a protection and a guarantee against alum food

The low-grade powders are made from "phosphate alum," or "sodium aluminum sulphate," which is also alum, a mineral acid, and that makes the food unhealthful.

One pound of the imitation (25c.) powders contains five ounces of alum, a mineral poison.

Food baked with alum baking powders is found to contain a portion of the alum unchanged.

The continued use of alum made food impairs digestion, causing dyspepsia. The careful housewife when buying baking powder, will examine the label and take only a brand whose label shows the powder to be made from cream of tartar.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 29.—Mystery surrounds the finding of the body of Mrs. Mary Cochran, thirty-eight years old, in a field near the Soldiers' home, three miles from her home. Duggy tracks and evidences of a hard struggle indicated that she had been taken to the lonely spot, and murdered. Death was caused by a bullet wound in the head. The police are looking for her husband to ascertain whether he knows of any clue to the slayer.

A Queer Case.

An Ohio boy, 12 years old, who was crossing a field on his father's farm was suddenly attacked by two robins, and though he fought them off as well as he could and eventually drove them away, he had one eye so badly injured that he will lose the sight of it. This is perhaps the first instance known where a timid bird like the robin ever attacked a human being, and the cause is hard to understand. They had no nest near where the attack took place.

Old Men for Council.

Old men cannot bunch and run in droves like kids just out of school. A certain solitude is necessary for the proper exercise of sober judgment and serious thought, both on things past and things to come. Study requires isolation, and while we live let us ever study and learn. Life is short, but nature and science are measureless. There is no old age like the old expert physician's old age. ## JANESVILLE WINS FROM WAUKESHA

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TEAM DEFEATED WAUKESHA WITH THE SCORE OF 5 TO 0.

IN CLOSE GRIDIRON BATTLE

Teams Were Evenly Matched and Put Up A Spirited Contest on the Gridiron This Morning.

In a fast and fiercely contested gridiron battle at the Athletic Park this morning, the Janesville high school eleven defeated the team from Waukesha high with the score of 5 to 0. About evenly matched as to size and playing ability, the contestants put up one of the best exhibitions of football that has been seen here in some time. There was plenty of glancing on both sides and victory was achieved by the locals only by the hardest playing.

The game was called shortly after ten o'clock. Janesville, kicked off to Waukesha and the ball was recovered by Ward and advanced it to the Janesville forty yard line in a brilliant run. Hero Waukesha was held for downs and was forced to punt. Janesville recovered the ball and in a series of fast spectacular plays brought the play to Waukesha's twenty yard line. The visitors were taken by surprise and it must be admitted, were played out their feet. They soon regained their confidence, however, and the ball was advanced and forth for the remainder of the half with the advantage on neither side.

At the close of the third quarter came the sensational run which won the game for Janesville. The locals had been held for downs and punted. In the scramble to recover the ball, Brown, who plays left half on the Janesville team, secured the ball and ran fifty yards for a touchdown. Ryan failed to kick goal and the whistle blew for the close of the quarter with the score standing 5 to 0 in Janesville's favor.

In the last quarter of the game neither side was able to make any material advances and the teams zigzagged back and forth in the center of the field. The whistle blew with the ball in Janesville's possession on Waukesha's forty yard line. The score remained 5 to 0 in favor of Janesville. At no time during the game did either team get on the part of either of the contestants. The game was a scrappy, manner which was very gratifying to Coach Knudson. Waukesha is a rival of the Janesville boys on the gridiron and the fight was all the more keen on that account. The locals are showing up well and deserve credit accordingly.

NORTHWESTERN ROAD UNWILLING PARTY

To Suit Against Blodgett-Milling Co. Which Was Settled Out of Court Today—Defendant Has No Redress.

Some rather complicated questions of law and natural justice were involved in the case of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company vs. the Blodgett-Milling company, which was settled out of court by Attorney W. G. Wheeler of Milwaukee and Mr. P. Richardson this morning. The railroad was an unwilling party to the action but had to bring it and, if necessary, carry it to the supreme court in order to avoid getting involved with the interstate commerce commission.

Some two and a half years ago a shipment of rye was shipped to the mill blinding concern from a point west of Duluth over the Northern Pacific and the Blodgett company was given agent at that point that the grain could be shipped via Ashland over the C. & N. W. road for 95 cents; the freight rate of 95 cents was paid; and freight receipts issued therefor by the C. & N. W. company. Of course, the Blodgett company subsequently disposed of its finished product.

Six months or more thereafter the C. & N. W. company served notice upon the Blodgett company, claiming that the tariff rate which ought to have been charged for the transportation of the grain from Duluth to Janesville should have been the sum of two local rates—live cents from Duluth to Ashland and 16 cents from Ashland to this point—making the total charge $4.15. The Blodgett company maintained that it had at least been entitled to a through rate.

Upon investigation the railroad company found that the rate which had been the original basis of the suit had not been filed with the interstate commerce commission at the time the shipment in question was made and that the old through rate was, as a matter of fact, in effect. The complaint was therefore amended so as to cut the tariff to 12 1/2 cents and call for a difference of $3.07 in settlement. It was a foregone conclusion that the courts would hold in favor of the prevailing, no matter what the C. & N. W. company might have charged at the time. And so the case was settled on that basis—the Blodgett-Milling company paying the $3.07 which did not figure in the selling price of the product and therefore represents a net loss for which there is no redress.

Under a recent amendment to the interstate commerce law a shipper, if he compels a railroad company in advance to submit rates in writing and these rates afterward prove to be below the schedule on file with the government, may, when compelled to foot the difference, recover from the railroad company. And the public carrier may be punished for its blunder.

PRONOUNCE FATE OF HIGH SCHOOL FRATS

Board Of Education Has Condemned Them, But Favors The Literary Societies.

Following the adoption by the board of education of a resolution condemning high school fraternities, high school boys who are members of the Kappa Sigma Phi and the members of the Kappa Delta Phi, a majority, have been given copies of the resolution by Superintendent J. C. Huell with the request that they confer with the parents and agree to withdraw from the fraternity and not join any fraternity while attending high school. At a meeting of the board some months ago, the subject of the action that had been taken elsewhere with regard to high school fraternities and a committee was appointed to investigate the fraternities and literary societies at the high school. The committee, comprising Francis Grant, S. St. Shinar and A. M. Fisher made a report at the October session, in which it was stated that the fraternities were not to be tolerated. It was recommended, however, that "more literary societies be established to which pupils of all degrees of advancement may belong; that a fixed standard of scholarship be required for all societies; that an adverse vote of one-fifth of the membership be required to refuse membership to any who sought entrance into a society; and that the laws, initiation ceremonies, customs and activities of any society be subject to the approval of its title or the superintendent. The members of the fraternities were asked to notify Superintendent Huell of their agreement to withdraw before November 7 when the board holds its November meeting.

Educational boards in other cities throughout the country have denounced the fraternities and brought about their dissolution. In Beloit a complaint was made against the three girls' societies in the school and an agreement was made between the board of education and the societies by which the societies are to be slowly dissolved, the members agreeing not to receive in any new members. In the state of Minnesota, there is a law forbidding them and elsewhere they have been forbidden by the board of education, whose word is law in such matters. The general complaint against the "frats" is that they cause the members to neglect their studies and there is a tendency toward creating cliques and a spirit of snobbishness.

Dr. S. H. Buckmaster, president of the board of education, stated today that about a year ago several parents had at various times spoken to him about societies in which the high school girls were interested, complaining that the young lady members were becoming snobbish. "The investigation by the committee was the result of no special case which had been reported. 'We do not want to wage a warfare on the young people,' said he. 'We want to encourage them and help them in every way possible. If the fraternities are for good, I am in favor of them, but if they are causing snobbishness, I believe they should not be permitted.'

Manufacture Brooms: Inmates of the County Asylum for the Insane have a new occupation in the manufacture of brooms. About four acres of broom corn was raised on the farm this year and a number of the men are learning to make brooms. About fifty have been finished so far.

Up for Drunkenness: John A. Anderson of Brookings, Wis., a patent moped-ster, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in municipal court this morning and paid a fine and costs amounting to $3. Charles Arron of Johnson was given one week to pay a similar amount.

Witnessed Rockford Fire: Ex-Alderman E. W. Lowell was in the Forest City yesterday and saw the Rockford Wholesale Grocery plant destroyed by fire. The blaze started from matches and as it was discovered before it had made great headway, and the brick building was on the water-front and accessible from all sides, Mr. Lowell thinks it ought to have been saved. He was not much impressed with the work of the fire department and thinks that Janesville, when size is taken into consideration, has a much better one. The loss was $250,000. Rockford has a new Abrams fire engine, a duplicate of the one owned here, and a fire-boat on the river to boot.

Read Somewhat Peculiar.
That there is not much in a name after all was proved amusingly a day or so ago, says the Philadelphia Times, when a prominent business man received a postal from his son and daughter-in-law, saying: "We are on our way to Hell, but it's not as hot as you would expect. More than that," continued the postcard, "it's as easy to get out of as to get into." The news came as quite a surprise to the man, as, knowing his son and daughter-in-law, he scarcely pictured them on their way to the infernal regions. It turns out, however, that Hell is a village in Norway of 1,388 inhabitants and is in no wise a rival to its namesake. "I wouldn't mind it at all," declares the recipient of the news, "if he only hadn't sent it on a postcard."

Women's Love of Dress.
The real defense for women in their growing love for dress seems to us to be this, that dress is a recreation, one of those natural recreations which grow out of necessity and out of everlasting emotions. It is nothing against a recreation that the frivolous rich suffer from over-indulgence in it, or the frivolous poor from that craving for it which has its root in privation. The love of dress among women—especially, we think, in its modern manifestation, which emphasizes variety—snakes, we believe, for social balance.

COMMERCIAL TRUCKS FINISH RUN TODAY

Monitor Car Started As Number Twenty-five and Finished in Thirty-fifth Place Yesterday.

In the endurance run for commercial trucks which started from Chicago yesterday morning, the car which was entered by the Monitor Automobile company arrived at the court house square in Milwaukee the thirty-fifth in the race. This place does not mean, however, that the car received that ranking in the entire run, as there is the return trip today to be counted and besides the speed, endurance and cost of running is also to be reckoned with. The Monitor car was the twenty-fifth to leave Chicago and all considered it showed up well.

At 2:07 yesterday afternoon the Dulick truck, No. 3, arrived in Milwaukee and was closely followed by Overland No. 1, Sears No. 4, and Clio No. 2. The other trucks arrived in quick succession and were housed for the night in the basement of the auditorium. All the drivers agreed that the run was successful and that the cars had stood the tests in first-class shape. The roads were dry and smooth and in excellent condition to make fast time. The greatest hurdle which was faced all the way to Milwaukee.

A meeting of the drivers and observers of the cars was held last night at the Plunkington House and speeches were made by members of the automobile associations interested in the endurance test. The first car left the Auditorium this morning on the return trip at six o'clock and the others followed at intervals of one minute.

GIRLS INTERESTED IN SOCIAL CENTER

Much Enthusiasm Was Shown at the Meeting at the City Hall Last Evening.

Much enthusiasm was manifest last evening at the meeting held at the city hall in the interest of a social center for young women. The gathering was held to talk the matter over with some of the young ladies and was the first attempt to get their opinion and to see what they desired to do with regard to the question of establishing an organization for girls similar to that provided for boys and men. The meeting was very successful as there was a large number of the young ladies of the city present and all seemed heartily in favor of the project. Nearly every line of work in which women are engaged in this city was represented, factory employees, stenographers, clerks, and housekeepers being present. The girls are impressed with the need of some organization which will carry out somewhat like the same lines of work for girls as the Y. M. C. A. and other clubs are doing for boys and young men.

The meeting last evening was presided over by Mrs. Janet H. Day, one of the ladies of the city who has taken on a prominent part in the effort to secure a social center for girls. Committees were appointed last night to arrange for a mass meeting at the city hall on next Friday evening, at which some noted speaker, who has been engaged in organization work similar to this, will give an address. Every girl and woman interested in the work is requested to be present at this meeting.

WEE INCIDENT OF CIVIL WAR

Young Soldier Crawls Along Burned Bridge at Night and Compels Enemy to Retreat.

The bravest and coolest act that came under my observation during five years' military service at the time of the Civil war, was that of Isaac B. Hardy, a soldier nineteen years of age, who has been for many years a resident of Santa Barbara.

March 3, 1865, Gen. Sherman, on his march through the Carolinas, arrived before Cheraw, on the great Pedee river. Here the Seventeenth corps, with my regiment, the Sixty-fourth Illinois, known as the Yates Sharpshooters, in the lead as skirmishers, held the center, writes Mr. J. S. Reynolds in Los Angeles Times.

I was ordered to immediately advance the skirmishers at a double quick through the town to the west end of the only bridge there over the river, and, if possible, prevent the enemy from destroying it. We reached the bridge after the exchange of many shots, with feeling squads of the enemy's cavalry, who had been guarding the roads leading into the town, but already the farther end of the bridge was on fire, and many of the cavalry had to ride through the smoke and blaze to escape.

The sharpshooters kept the enemy away from the bridge while our pioneers crossed over to the fire and extinguished it. Only a charred stringer was left of the burnt span connecting with the shore abutment.

When the pioneers returned and the sharpshooters stopped firing, a line of infantry formed on the opposite bank of the river and commenced firing on our men. Then we were ordered to deploy the sharpshooters along our shore and drive the enemy from their position. Our rifles did good execution, and the enemy retired out of range. At dusk they again moved down to the river and a brisk fire was kept up from both sides till near midnight, when it slackened to only an occasional shot from either side.

About 1 o'clock we heard the report of one of our Winchester rifles at or near the farther end of the bridge, and this report kept up as fast as a lively soldier could load and fire. Our men recognized the gun and, as the enemy had commenced a brisk fire, our entire line opened fire on the opposite shore, avoiding sending their bullets too near the bridge.

Here follows young Hardy's modest narrative of his midnight trip into the enemy's lines.

"I walked over to about the middle of the bridge; then I crouched down and went forward very quietly, keeping in the shadow of the railing, till I reached the end of the bridge. I could not see any one right near the bridge, but I could plainly see the enemy lined up at the water's edge down the river, and I thought it would be fine to get a flank fire on them.

"I discovered a single stringer that connected the bridge with the land, and I crawled along this until I reached the abutment on the shore. Here I found a place to sit astride some cross-timbers, where, by leaning over to one side, I had a good view of the river, and they were not likely to see me.

"As soon as I commenced firing at them they opened fire, pretty lively on the bridge and at the abutment where I was, but the timbers protected me. The place was much hotter than I expected, but I kept on firing at them as fast as I could. I could hear our sharpshooters' bullets strike the bank.

"It was not long till they fell back to higher ground, and from there directed their fire across the road that led from the bridge. I still had a good range on them and kept on firing. They pretty soon moved back diagonally to the road, and stopped firing. Then I could not see them, and I got out on the road, and there they were just disappearing into the darkness. I fired at them and they fled back at me. They were soon out of sight. I guess that is the last we will see of these Johnnyes."

EARNED HIGH RANK

ABILITY OF RAILROADERS WON RECOGNITION.

In Few Other Professions Are the Opportunities as Good—Workers Now Largely Recruited From the High Schools.

"Practically all the most desirable positions on the railroads today are occupied by men who have risen from the ranks. On my own division of a railroad," a former signalman says in the Youth's Companion, "I have seen the agent at a small station work up into the position of auditor, at $5 or $6 a day.

"The young fellow who used to drag the chain and figure out angles and curves on the track is now the superintendent of a division. The boy who used to play round the cars and twist brakes just for fun in a small yard up country is now a responsible trainmaster.

"I often wondered as I watched him at play what he would one day do with his earnestness and enthusiasm. The telegraph operator at $1.25 a day, who worked overtime without a murmur, and held to a miserable job with grim determination, is now the general manager of a big system.

"Still more interesting is the story of the water-boy who became in time a passenger brakeman. One day he made a mistake and derailed a train. He went right into the office and confessed his negligence. Before long, for his honesty, he was promoted. At the age of twenty-six he was general ticket agent. Today he probably ranks first in his line of business in the United States.

"All these men work within a few feet of each other in one railroad station. The building swarms with such men, and when you come to look into the matter closely you will be told that in these and all other cases talent and ability have counted, but the main characteristic of these men has been their strict attention to duty and their lifelong devotion and loyalty to the interests of the public and the railroad.

"During the last few years one of the avenues of employment on the railroad that has become particularly attractive is the passenger train service. The ranks of the trainmen are now largely recruited from the high schools.

"To begin with, he has to give an account of himself. The trainmaster takes hold of him. He must answer a number of questions in regard to his nationality, his parents, his age, his height, his weight. Some of these questions are very pertinent and searching.

"Are you crippled or deformed? Is your eyesight or hearing defective? Are you able to distinguish colors? Art you subject to any sickness or infirmity? Are you temperate in your habits? Do you use intoxicating liquors? Do you ever gamble in any way?

"If he passes a creditable examination he takes his place on a train perhaps the following day.

"When we start a new man in the train service we keep in close touch with him for a year at least. Success or failure comes in this period. In a week or two I begin to make inquiries. If his work is up to the mark I find a way to let him know it. Encouragement counts in any business. Then I change his run and extend his duties and responsibilities.

"When his turn comes to take the position of flagman he is subjected to another examination. In our business it would never do to take any chances. It is one thing to answer questions in the office; it is another thing to handle a train or to flag with good judgment. So I take an imaginary train and place it in all sorts of difficult positions. A man has to be thoroughly posted to pass the examination with credit.

"The first six months of the trainman's career is the probationary period. During this time he receives what is called 'unexperienced rate of pay,' which is 25 cents a day less than the full rate. At the end of six months he is full fledged and competent."

To Train Signal Men.

Greater safety in railroad operation being demanded, the Pennsylvania railroad has instituted a new plan of training men to maintain and operate its signals. Four signal apprentices have been appointed, and the different divisions of the line east of Pittsburgh have started signal schools, where experienced signalmen give instruction to the division signal employees in regard to operation and maintenance of signals and interlocking appliances.

Signal apprentices will serve a three years' course. The first year will be spent on the mechanical and of the work with the repair and construction gangs, the second year in the office of the supervisor of signals, and the third year on outside work on electric and electro-pneumatic appliances.

The next place open to them is the position of assistant signal inspector in the signal engineer's office.

Lead in Railroad Mileage.

When side tracks are taken into account, we have more railroad mileage than all the rest of the world.

Spoonner—Well, you know, my man, she's a pretty heavy girl.

A Dead Certainty.

Bluffer—I told my wife I was going fishing.
"Do you expect to catch anything?"
"Yes, when I get home."

GOT OUT OF IT EASY.

Hubby—Gee, I was dreaming I was—or—or—playing baseball.

Every Month the Number of People Who Come to the Chiropractors Increases

Every week hundreds of people are telling their friends what the Chiropractors have done for them. Appendicitis overcome without operations. One boy made well by Chiropractic adjustments. One man who had been operated upon for appendicitis, four years ago, but who had suffered ever since, who had tried several doctors without relief came to us and is made well.

There is hardly a disease known to mankind that cannot be removed by Chiropractic adjustments. It is not necessary to fill yourself with drugs and poisons to be made well. Nature will throw off the disease in the same way that you acquired it, if you will take adjustments. We remove the disease, BY REMOVING THE CAUSE OF THE DISEASE. READ WHAT THIS MAN SAYS OF US. This letter was not asked for. He wanted the facts printed so as to help his fellow beings.

READ WHAT HE HAS TO SAY FOR THE SCIENCE OF CHIROPRACTIC.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: "I am 49 years of age. I suffered 4 years ago with appendicitis and the doctor said that if I would have my appendix removed I would get well. He removed the appendix all right or at least he claims he did, but I learned to my sorrow that I got worse than better, for it left me in such a nervous condition that I would drop down wherever I chanced to be at times and I could not sleep at all or stand still. After suffering for 4 years and trying several other doctors without getting any help, I was prevailed upon by friends to go and try Puddicombe & Puddicombe, the Chiropractors, and now I'm glad I did for after the first adjustment I could sleep all night which I have not done for over 4 years and I have not had a fall for a week and the nervousness is almost gone and I can't help but think that they are going to bring me out all right. I am giving this testimonial not for personal gain for the Chiropractors but to warn others who may be led into the same trap I was. Don't submit to an operation until you have called on the Chiropractors, for they will locate the cause of your trouble in your spine and by removing the cause your disease or trouble will leave you and they will also tell you whether or not they can do any thing for you before they will take your case. I can not find words to express my feeling for the good the Chiropractors have done already for me."

RAYMOND PUDDICOMBE

This letter is signed and witnessed but we desire to withhold the name from public print. Anyone wishing to know the name can find out upon application at our office.

Note the illustration. It shows the second and third lumbar vertebrae slightly subluxated, which causes a pressure on the nerves leading to the appendix. The lack of nerve energy to this part of the body causing appendicitis and by adjusting these vertebrae the condition was made normal, thus removing the cause of the trouble.

Hundreds of cases of appendicitis, many of them so bad that operation was done, have all been made well by the Chiropractic Adjustments by removing these conditions of spine without any operation. We have never seen a case requiring operation, as the healing will take place by removing the trouble at spine.

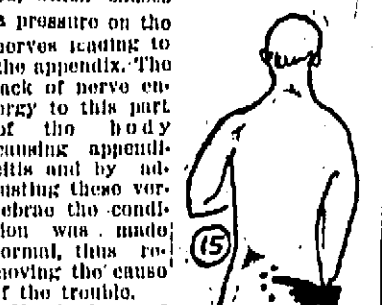

Illustration No. 2 shows the first cervical vertebra of the neck out of place. This will cause Neuritis in the head. A woman who had suffered for many years was in this condition. She came to us and we found that the subluxation was pinching the nerves and cutting off the nerve force. Several adjustments got it back in place and the lady was never troubled since with Neuritis. A great many of these cases come to us. The subluxation is not always in the same place and the neuritis is in the different parts of the body.

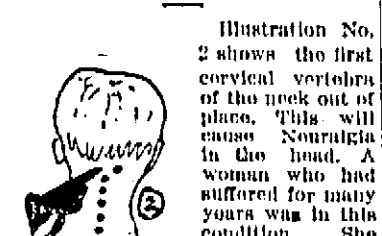

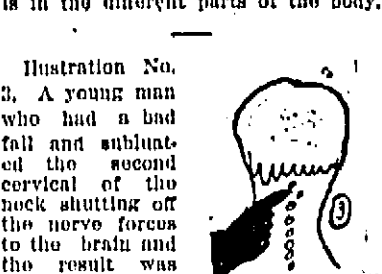

Illustration No. 3. A young man who had a bad fall and subluxated the second cervical of the neck shutting off the nerve force to the brain and the result was he became violently insane. This was adjusted and the young man became rational again. The Chiropractors find a great many cases like this one where there is a slight subluxation at this same vertebra that causes people to become fanatics on any one subject but if they are not disturbed they will go along for a little time without doing any harm to anyone or any particular good, but condition was restored and the man was made well.

We have a great many of these cases, and 98 per cent were made well.

CONSUMPTION AND BRONCHIAL TROUBLE.

Illustration No. 9. Consumption in a young man. The Cause 9. Consumption in a young man. The second and third dorsal vertebrae were found in a lateral subluxated condition, throwing a pressure on the nerves that supply the lungs, causing congestion of the lungs which throw the patient into consumption. By replacing the vertebrae and removing the pressure from these nerves it gives nature a chance to restore perfect health.

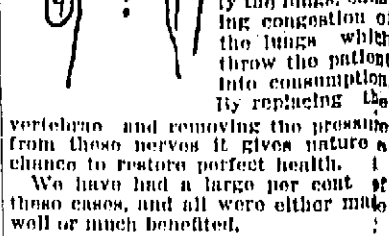

Illustration No. 7 shows the 7th vertebra of the neck out of place. A case in point is that of a man who had paralysis on one side, and the heart was weak, caused by the 7th vertebra pressing on the nerves leading to the brain and shutting off the nervous energy. By adjusting the vertebra, the normal condition was restored and the man was made well.

We have a great many of these cases, and 98 per cent were made well.

FEMALE TROUBLES AND CONSTIPATION.

Illustration No. 16. One nationally prominent lady who has witnessed many cases of miscarriage and other female troubles during successful adjustments at the Chiropractic college, said: "If you have discovered nothing more than this way of banishing these diseases without surgical operations, you have done more to bless suffering women than anyone who has ever lived."

We usually find a subluxation at the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae, causing prolapsus and menorrhagia. These are all corrected even when adhesions have formed. Times are easily reduced and growth stopped. This kind of correction the largest percentage of our cases.

There is not a disease known to what a greater per cent of them can be overcome by Chiropractic Adjustment than by any other method.

DISEASES OF STOMACH.

Illustration No. 11. A nationally known man suffered with dyspepsia and indigestion for many years. Adjusted the vertebra of the spine at the 5th, 6th and 7th dorsal vertebrae, restoring the nervous energy to the stomach, and he can now eat any kind of food without trouble. Hundreds of my cases are of this nature. All made entirely well at a smaller cost than you would pay to a doctor, without getting permanent relief.

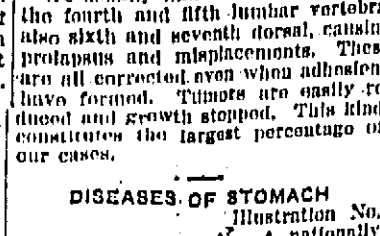

Illustration No. 14. A man had a severe case of Bright's disease. His limbs were swollen and sore were breaking out. He had been given up as incurable and fully expected to die, however, he called in a chiropractor. Spine was adjusted at 11th and 12th dorsal vertebrae and 4th and 5th lumbar and freeing the nerves to kidneys and the case was soon diagnosed, another success for the great new science of Chiropractic.

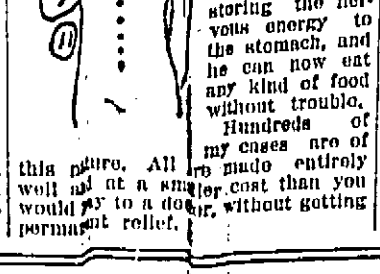

Illustration No. 12. Prominent business man found he had a weak heart and that the beats were not regular. He sold out his business expecting to retire. He finally called on us and we found 2nd and 4th dorsal vertebrae subluxated. By replacing the vertebrae we removed the pressure from the heart nerves which restores it to normal, and the man was made well immediately. This man went back into active business.

THE APOLLO CLUB.

While it may seem ludicrous for the Apollo club to propose to hold their first concert in the Myers theatre with a program that is to cost upwards of six hundred dollars, still it is believed that there are enough music-lovers in Janesville who will delight to hear the opening concert.

After this performance he was presented with a magnificent emerald and diamond ring.

Tibaldi has many interesting souvenirs. Among them is a signed sketch done especially for him by his late Majesty, the King of Portugal, also a ring given him by Christel Nilsson, and recently after playing he

FORMER PRESIDENT OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY AND POSSIBLE SUCCESSOR.

Princeton, N. J.—With the resignation of President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university, candidate for governor of New Jersey on the democratic ticket, Princeton loses one of her ablest presidents. Mr. Wilson is a man whose initiative has been revolutionary in university life and who has made of Princeton university a stronger and better educational institution, with more far-reaching influence than it had ever before attained. As his successor, temporarily John Alderman Stewart will act in his place.

Mr. Stewart is 38 years old and has been a member of the board of trustees since April 29, 1903. Mr. Stewart is not a graduate of Princeton, but for a time was a member of the class of 1890 of Columbia college. He has not missed a meeting of the trustees in five years.

Mr. Stewart was for a long time with the Princeton ideas and spirit.

president of the United States. Trust company of New York, and was formerly assistant United States treasurer.

The permanent president has yet to be chosen by the directors. Among those most prominently mentioned are John H. Finney, now president of the college of the City of New York, and H. A. Garfield, now president of Williams college. Both men are comparatively young, have devoted their lives to education and are thoroughly inspired.

Perform Difficult Feats.

To play a violin and play it well is considered quite an accomplishment, but Marquis and Lynn, vaudeville actors at the new vaudeville theatre, perform even more difficult feats than this with their instruments. Looking across they dance about the stage, and furnish the music for their movements. This is but one of the things they do in their act and all are well worth while to see. They close their engagement in this city this evening.

A new amusement program is furnished with motion pictures and illustrated songs.

"Sidelined."

Manager Myers offers the theatre-goers of Janesville a rare treat next week. The comedy called "Sidelined," which appears at the Opera House Monday, Oct. 31st, is too well known to need an introduction. The management has spared no expense in producing this great comedy. Only high salaried artists are employed. Special scenery is carried for the play throughout. The plot is pretty, the situations are funny, and the spectacle is up-to-date.

No Jewish Lullabies.

It is remarkable that notwithstanding the love and devotion of a Jewish mother there seems to be no trace of a real Jewish lullaby. These known are of a recent origin.

Build the Fence Strong.
Build the line fence strong enough to keep your own and your neighbor's stock on the right side, but do not have it so high that it will prevent you from being neighborly.

As to Absent Friends.
There is an unfortunate tendency with some people to talk in a disparaging way about absent acquaintances. "Oh, she's very nice, but—" and this "but" often leads up to a quite unnecessary and unkind comment. The golden rule to observe in talking about people is to speak exactly as though they were present, says Home Notes. Everything gains by repetition, and not always favorably. Bishop Doerflinger once said: "I resolve never to speak of a man's virtues before his face, nor of his faults behind his back," and faultfinders and flatterers would do well to bear this in mind.

When Xenophon Came Back.
Xenophon was personally conducting the retreat of the Ten Thousand. "I'm going to show the sporting editors," he said, "that I can come back in good shape." He rubbed it in, too, afterward, by writing a most exasperating book about it.—Chicago Tribune.

BOOST JANESVILLE BY BOOSTING HER INDUSTRIES

There is plenty of room for boost among the many industries here. Many of them are not always boosted. Ours is one. There are several good reasons why you should bring your work to us. Here they are:

We have the only exclusive tire repair plant in the city, so do not let any one except Reed & Gage, Priellip Bros. or Sykes and Davis tell you that they will get your work done at home as the above are the only garages in this city that we do work for. All others must send your tires out of town or else burn them with an electric outfit.

WE HAVE THE ONLY STEAM VULCANIZING PLANT NEARER THAN ROCKFORD OR MADISON. STEAM IS THE ONLY SAFE WAY OF VULCANIZING TIRES AND TUBES.

DRY HEAT WILL CAUSE THE RUBBER TO CRACK SOONER OR LATER.

Our prices are not only as low as any first class shop but you have NO EXPRESS CHARGES TO PAY AND WE GUARANTEE ALL OUR WORK AND STAND BACK OF IT.

BETTER SURE YOUR TIRES COME HERE. NOT ONLY WILL YOU GET BETTER WORK, BUT WILL BE DOING YOUR SHARE TO BOOST JANESVILLE BY KEEPING THE MONEY HERE AT HOME.

DRIVERS IN RIOTS: POLICE POWERLESS

STRIKE OF EXPRESS EMPLOYEES
RESULTS IN MUCH VIOLENCE
AT NEW YORK.

BUSINESS AT A STANDSTILL

Situation on Both Sides North River Is Becoming Most Acute—Companies Call Upon New Jersey Governor for Militia.

New York, Oct. 29.—The strike of drivers and helpers employed by all the larger express companies that for several days has been in progress at the railroad terminals on the Jersey City side of the North river, has spread to New York, and as a result the entire business of receipt and delivery of all goods in transit was materially affected.

Chaotic Conditions Exist.
The situation is in a veritable state of chaos with an outlook for even worse conditions unless the express matter piling up at the railroad depots can be moved. The police seem powerless to render sufficient protection and the men ready to hire out as strike-breakers are very diffident about applying for the positions. Scenes of violence were enacted all over the city, wagons being stoned and drivers beaten.

In Jersey City and Hoboken, where the large stables are located, the strike has completely tied up the companies and perishable goods, as a consequence, are accumulating in huge piles.

The express companies have made tentative application to Governor Fort for the calling out of the militia to guard their wagons and buildings, but the Jersey City police authorities are confident that they can handle the situation. Although business is at a standstill the companies are likely to resume the running of wagons under police guard.

Detectives Guard Big Transfer.
An interesting incident of the strike was the transfer of several heavy pouches, said to contain almost $1, 000,000, from the offices of the U. S.
Express company to the sub-treasury in Wall street. The transfer was made by express messengers under guard of nine detectives, who kept their hands on the butts of their revolvers until the money was safely housed in Uncle Sam's vaults.

Whether officials of the express company had received information that an attempt would be made to rob the messengers if the money was carried in the wagons in the ordinary way, or whether it was just a precaution taken by the company, could not be learned.

IN A 5,000-MILE DEATH RACE.

Dying Millionaire Supervises His Son's Return from Alaskan Wilds.
Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 29.—Far up in the frozen north, at White Horse, on the edge of an Alaskan forest, is a young man beginning a 5,000-mile trip, which, before it ends, will employ the fastest steamships and special trains.

Here in Atlantic City, ill in bed, but determined to live until the journey's end, and using his military experience to send telegrams of instruction along the route the younger man will follow, is an old man. For weeks, while they were taking the Alaskan wilds for his son, Col. Thomas Potter, Jr., millionaire manufacturer of Philadelphia and quartermaster of the Pennsylvania National Guard, clung to life. The son was located and started on his long journey east.

At certain points along his route the young man will find ready special trains, at others boats. And the father has become sufficiently aroused to make terse and direct suggestions dealing with the transportation.

BOQUE $100 BILL DISCOVERED.

Large Numbers May Be in Circula-

Washington, Oct. 29.—"You had better get out all your $100 bills and look them over." This warning went out from the headquarters of the secret service. A fine-looking $100 gold certificate, which is a counterfeit, has turned up, and it is feared that large numbers of them may be in circulation. The particular bill now in possession of the secret service came from Havana, Cuba.

was announced effective November 1, succeeding J. J. Taylor, resigned. Mr.
Westfall came to the Chicago & Alton

A Costly Pet.

A year or so ago, a Montana boy captured a young squirrel and took him home and made a pet of him. The little animal was given free range of the house and seemed content, and his owner was several times offered $2 for him. A few days ago a roll of $100 was missed, and, after a long hunt it was found that the squirrel had torn the bills to pieces to make a nest of. He was a fine squirrel next day.

SEPARATION DECREED

BY LISBON GOVERNMENT.

Church and State Order Promulgated.
—Spanish Premier Canalejas Threatens to Resign.

Lisbon, Oct. 29.—The separation of church and state was announced in a decree issued by the provisional government.

Another decree published declares for the freedom of the press.
The government declined the invitation to attend a memorial mass for the victims of the revolution on the ground that it desired to remain neutral in matters of religion.

Madrid, Oct. 29.—In a speech in the senate Senor Canalejas, the premier, declared that if parliament did not pass the "badlock bill," which prohibits the creation of further religious establishments, until the concordat with the vatican has been completed, he would resign.

Barcelona, Spain, Oct. 29.—At a meeting of the city council the radical majority voted to tear down the defenses erected about the doors and windows of the Jesuit college, and which, it was alleged, had transformed the building into a fortress.

Paris, Oct. 29.—A meeting called by M. Pelletan and other members of the chamber of deputies to pay honor to the memory of Francisco Ferrer, the Spanish Republican leader who was executed at Barcelona last year, broke up in a riot. M. Pelletan had put a motion before the meeting asking that Spain free herself from the yoke of the church, revise her methods of criminal procedure, and rehabilitate the honor of Ferrer when a group of anarchists stormed the platform. The junior switched on the electric lights, which ended the melee.

Easily Mended.

A young Lithuanian called at the marriage license office in Chicago with his bride recently, but a license was refused on account of the bride's tender years, she being only 15. The lover was crestfallen for a few moments, then his face cleared and he left with the remark that he would return shortly.

The clerk supposed that he would show up with the bride's parents. In an hour he again presented himself at the counter—with another girl.—

STUBBS TELLS RATE

ARBITERS LINES FALSIFY

Kansas Governor Declares at Chicago Hearing That Roads Also Resort to Stock Juggling.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Declaring that the western railroads were guilty of stock and profit juggling W. R. Stubbs, governor of Kansas, held that the assertions of the roads that an increase in freight rates was necessary were not justified by facts.

Governor Stubbs was testifying before the interstate commerce commission at its session here in the rate hearing.

He made one of the strongest witnesses that the shippers had placed on the stand. He insisted that the valuation the roads had put on their property was altogether excessive and he offered to reproduce all the lines in Kansas for $25,000 a mile and to give a bond of $1,000,000 for performance. Such a figure, he said, would yield him 10 per cent profit at least.

Much of the stocks of the railroads,
according to Governor Stubbs' testimony, consist of water and profits, and are jugged through the placing in permanent improvements of surpluses and then the capitalizing of the improvements.

The governor proved a tartar for the railroad attorneys when cross-examined, and his sallies kept the officials and others at the hearing in gales of laughter.

The Salary Question

Your salary question is once and forever solved the moment you become a trained man. Once you enter the ranks of those who are trained for modern business, the salary question takes care of itself. It is no longer necessary to serve years of apprenticeship to secure a business training.

NOW is the time to decide what you want to be in the future. NOW you are either limiting yourself to a narrow field where you will be forced to spend your future, or you are breaking down the barriers and providing limitless possibilities for your future.

The things you can't do are your barriers. It is easy to overcome them if you are ambitious.

Secure a Complete Business Training

and your future is assured. This is a business age and the young man or woman TRAINED FOR BUSINESS along the right lines will always be sure of profitable and congenial employment.

The Trained and Skillful Stenographer

has become one of the most necessary persons to every business of any size or importance. No person has a greater opportunity for advancement than the young man or woman who learns the business at first hand. Shorthand has been so simplified that it is now brought within the easy reach of all.

Spencerian Chartier Shorthand is today the simplest sys- tem to learn, the easiest to read and has the greatest speed possibilities.

Mr. W. W. Dale,
Janesville, Wis.

My Dear Mr. Dale: Well, I had to get back to my shorthand again the other day, and it stood me in pretty good stead. The County Attorney had a preliminary hearing in a small town 100 miles from here, and as the regular Court Stenographer was busy, he prevailed upon me to go over and take the testimony. Well, he gave me just 2 days' notice in which to practice. It was a medical case dealing with child-birth and 3 doctors testified, and I thought they were using all the medical names they could think of. I took testimony from 1 o'clock to 9:30 at night with half an hour off for supper. I have 65 pages of it transcribed so far, and haven't had a bit of difficulty in reading back. How is that for Chartier Shorthand after letting it go for a whole year?
I expect to make $45 side money on this one case, because I told them I wouldn't go unless there was awful good money in it, and the County Attorney told me to charge my own price, as they must have a stenographer. That one case would nearly pay my tuition for a year in your Business College.

Very Sincerely,

VINCENT W. NORTH.

It always pays to learn a GOOD system of a Shorthand at a GOOD school, as no test will then be too severe.

Be a Bookkeeper and Accountant

Our course in this subject is prepared by an expert bookkeeper and accountant of over 30 years' experience. Our students do not play at business—buying and selling imaginary goods and performing transactions of an impractical nature—but actuand handle the work from the start.

Our students in this city are holding positions with the best business firms as head bookkeepers. The positions they ob-

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

THE gambling element has been defeated in Nevada. The gamblers have been beaten down gradually through the work of the Church, the University of Nevada, AND THE WOMAN'S ORGANIZATIONS, which combined, brought legislative enactment.

That is quoted from one of the largest and most conservative papers in the United States.

Doesn't it make you proud, women of America?

Doesn't it make one of those lovely, awful thrills creep up your back—the kind you feel when you hear the bugle call, or when the hero on the stage proclaims his intention of dying rather than forswear his allegiance to the flag and the orchestra plays softly.

"Oh, yes, can you see—"

I think it ought to.

For it means that your sex has won a full recognition of its right and ability to help houseclean the city and the state as well as the home.

The tribute that the great newspaper, more or less unconsciously, gives us, is but one of the many that are continually being paid the power of the awakened woman to get good things done for her state and country.

Here are a few of them.

The President of the American Civic Association, in his book on his experiences in that position, has this to say of women's work, "I firmly believe that judging from my experience, national in its scope, and covering many scores of communities, it is ONLY through the action of women that efficient, final and satisfactory work for civic regeneration can be brought through."

In a recent magazine article it is stated that "when Henry Turner Bailey lectured on art at the last biennial, he voiced a plea for the mountain laurel as the national flower, assuring the women that their support was the one needed factor."

And again, that a well known politician said: "When a good woman makes up her mind that something ought to be done, you'd better make up your mind that she's going to see it through, and when a hundred of them get together you might as well try to stop a steam roller with a toothpick as to put a spoke in their wheel."

All this seems to me a state of affairs no less natural and inevitable than desirable.

Women as a class have more leisure than men. In the home if there is any little social obligation to be settled, any matter of the children's education to be attended to, in fact any little business outside of the general routine of the home to be dispatched, it is usually the woman who attends to it because the man of the house is too busy in the day time and too fagged at night.

Why, then, shouldn't it be the most natural thing in the world that any neglected business of civic betterment should become part of women's interests.

It is the most natural thing in the world, and as such it has come to pass, and is coming to pass more fully every day.

Women of America, I congratulate you!

May you ever be burning enthusiastically for reform and passionately eager for the right, without crossing the line into sentimentality and hysteria!

May you justify the belief of those who think you capable of considered and far-reaching, as well as altruistic action!

May you disappoint the scoffs of those who think you will always be away by shortsighted sentimentality and emotionalism.

In a word, Women of America, may you be worthy of your great opportunity!

THE SIN OF FORGETTING.

By MARY RUSSELL.

I have grown to think that perhaps the secret sin which reaches farthest and works the greatest havoc with lives is the sin of forgetting—or of not thinking.

Not so secret, after all as it usually is, as a haunting vice which leaves indelible marks.

The man who forgets to be his wife's friend and companion, the woman who forgets to carry her share of the burden but loads it on the shoulders already overweighted, the child who thinks only of its own little pleasures, the parent who forgets the joys of youth, all these are guilty of no crime which can be reached by any law save that of inevitable consequences.

The man who either makes his wife a servant or a dependent is far from sowing the seeds of happiness. He will live to a tired, aimless and probably loveless old age. He will not know, perhaps, why his life is so gray and sad and colored. He will not realize that he has forgotten at one important time the things which now crowd his memory full to running over. He forgets to love his wife in the truest sense when he has the chance and now it is too late. She has grown so accustomed to seeking her happiness in the children, or in bridge, or perhaps in the pet dog, that he is out of his life. She was once willing and anxious to share his life in its every detail, but she found the door of confidence shut in her face and so, being of the sex which takes the happiness which it can get when it can not get the happiness it wants, she has grown accustomed to doing without him save as a necessary appendage to a respectable household.

The man who complains of the family merely the pocketbook of the details of his way in which he made himself dictator of the privilege he took in making his wife come to him for money in the early days. He has forgotten how he kept the details of his business jealousy hidden from her eyes. There was a time when she was interested in every detail, but he shut her out, and she grew so accustomed to seeking the sunny side of the wall which he built between them that she has almost persuaded herself that it has but one side. But the man is lonely in his old age—knowing that the wall is there.

The woman who harrasses her husband with the petty details of her daily round is only keeping them constantly in mind while making his life steadily more difficult. A woman has a right to consult her husband where there is any problem, but she has no right to nag and harrasse him with all the petty details of a life which is at best rather narrow. When husband and wife meet there should be an effort on the side of each to make the other enjoy the intercourse.

The trouble with most of us is that we forget to remember, as the Irishman says. We grow accustomed to upon love until it loses its brightness and beauty.

We forget to be kind. We forget all the promises of days long past, the memory of which lingers with the one who grieves at the forgetting of the other.

It is a joke that men forget anniversaries and days of past, but dear, delicate, why should it be funny—it is a crime against love. "I am too busy for such nonsense," the man will say petulantly.

Too busy to remember love and to be kind? Is it any wonder that the woman in the case grows bitter?

Brush up your memories. If you do forget it will be forgiven you if you do not shelter yourself behind that unforgivable excuse. Say your partner was taken with amnesia, or that you had remembered and ordered a new hat, but it had not been completed, or any old thing like that, but never—never say you forgot. It is the unforgivable crime against love.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
By Mrs. Terrill.

On out into the country and see if you cannot purchase from some farmer a few smooth very green tomatoes. Cover the end of the stem, which should be left on, with paraffin and wrap the tomatoes separately in smooth, soft wrapping paper. Let them stand upon a dry cool shelf in the cellar and bring out a few days before Thanksgiving day. Place in a sunny window and you will have the foundation for a delightful salad. They will ripen, and while not of as fine flavor as the summer ripened fruit they are better than the ones which are brought from a distance.

Run tender stalks of celery through the coarse food chopper with a small onion and a green pepper and lay a spoonful on top of the altered tomato which should be dressed with a simple French dressing. A sprig or two of parsley or the leaves of the celery should be used to garnish the dish.

Study to make your Thanksgiving dinner simple and yet palatable and true to traditions. Many a man knows he is thankful merely because he has a good dinner to give thanks over. Serve notice on the members of your dinner party that each one will be expected to give some good and sufficient reason for being thankful. No subterfuges will be accepted. Call on one or two for good stories. Make it a day to remember because of its happiness. If you cannot afford a turkey have whatever you cook served nicely and with due regard for the ceremony of the day when all the people of the United States are called upon to come together in one great hour of praise and gratitude for the many mercies that have been vouchsafed us.

Try making a few slices of salt pork, well cleaned and an egg to the stuffing of whole bread for the turkey. It will greatly improve the flavor.

Where there are to be children at the table provide favors. The bon-bon boxes made in the shape of turkeys and pumpkins are tasteful and suited to the occasion.

No matter how old or how young the majority of your guests may be play all the old fashioned games after dinner. Blind man's buff, pussy wants a corner, ring around a rose and a dozen of like value in memory stirring qualities should be played. Sing the old time hymns. And at the very very close of day make each one tell of some particular Thanksgiving day which he remembers. So have we preserved our traditions and memories and if the coming generation is not to be without the greatest of stories we must keep up the old customs.

Tibet Headress Might Be Adapted to American Styles.

THE PACHA, HEADRESS WORN IN TIBET.

Take off the pignolis and this headress worn by the upper class women of Tibet might adorn the pretty head of America's upper tandom. Indeed, it is not as outre as many of the hats of the day that are considered "perfect dears."

And as for expense, it lines right up with the most exclusive winter models, the price being practically fifteen hundred of our dollars.

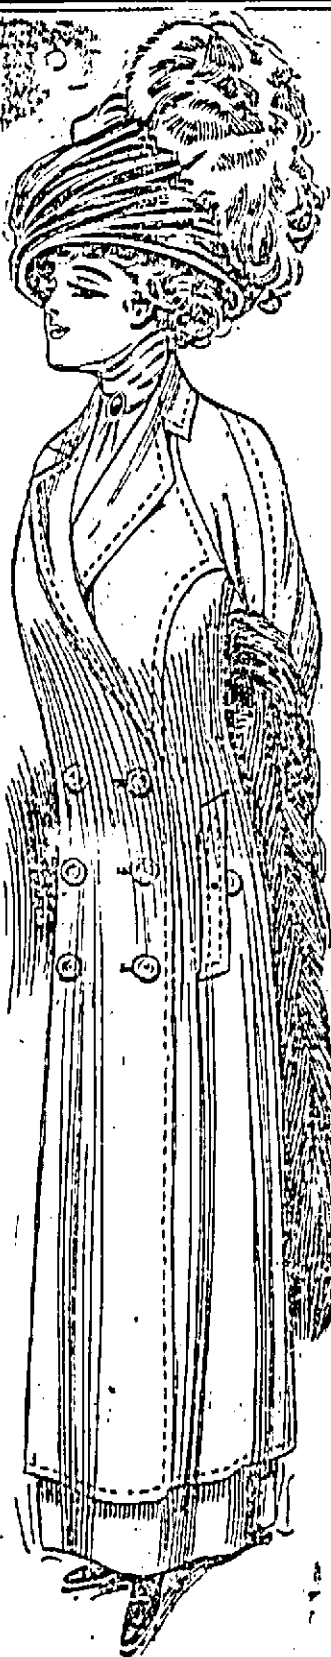

This costly piece of Tibetan headgear is interwoven with the wearer's hair and is ornamented with many turquoise, corals and small pearls. The decorations can be easily removed. It is worn only by women who are purely Tibetan and have not married Nepalese. In other words, it is an "ethnic" as a George or Carlier French model. American millinery artists please take notice of the "blues" and profit thereby when genius takes another eccentric chaplain flight.

"Well," said Mr. Fatherly, beaming still beaming, "I didn't know that that. Here's a postal card for Delinda

April and has only just come."

"For me?" said Delinda. "Why, how wonderful!" But when she had looked her face was wreathed in smiles.

"Why, father," she said, "I got

And then they all laughed merrily, laughed with the rest for his good

TRICHINAE POISONING.

An entire family was prostrated for several days, at Aurora, Ill., recently, from eating pork. This is one of the dangers of meat eating, which may be as serious as ordinary toxic poisoning from beef or fish or oysters. The trichinae, which cause the disturbance in this particular affection from pork, can be killed by cutting the pork thin and cooking it thoroughly. It often happens that a piece of pork is not cooked to the center, and then the temperature may not be high enough to kill the trichinae. If pork is eaten, it should be thoroughly cooked, especially sausage.

Large Sales of 1909 Leaf Crop

Some Six or Eight Thousand Cases of Tobacco Have Been Sold on Market the Past Week.

The week has brought to notice several transactions of packings of old tobacco, aggregating six to eight thousand cases of the 1909 crop, passing into the hands of the large consumers of Wisconsin leaf who apparently are fortifying themselves against future needs. Local packers are becoming so well cleaned out of this stock that we might easily count on one hand the thousands of cases that are likely to reach a market from this source. The Elmendorf firm has contracted for several good sized lots, while a 3,000 case packing goes to another eastern manufacturer. H. T. Sweeney reports the sale of 200 cases and the purchase of 75 cases of '09.

All grades of the new crop are being contracted for in a moderate way without much change in prices. C. Felland sold 100 at 10½¢; K. Olmstead, 75 at 8½¢; and plenty of low grade leaf is moving around.

Old leaf in farmers' hands is being sought after quite eagerly and the movement is gradually absorbing all the remnants of several years' crops at advanced figures.

The shipments out of storage reach 1500 cases and one car of bundles from this market to all points for the week. We note that an organization of Ohio tobacco growers has recently passed resolutions condemning the sale of trash tobacco, on the ground that it helps destroy the market for the better grades. It also goes on record as opposed to the practice of paying bounties in the purchase of tobacco as deception worked on growers, tending to prevent healthy competition in buying. It has probably not escaped the notice of everybody that the price of low grade leaf has advanced entirely out of proportion to the better grades in recent years.

Miller and trash tobacco have gone up from 100 to 200 per cent, while higher grade leaf has scarcely made a perceptible advance, solely for the reason that there is a stronger demand and a wider market opened for these grades. Formerly domestic Illinois demand largely upon an export market, but since the enormous trade for scrap and combination brands opened up there has been an increasing demand for low grade leaf, including the trash which our Ohio friends think ought not to be sold. It is quite a difficult thing to resolve effectively against the present demands of an established and fast growing industry.

Around Orford.

Orfordville, Wis.—Fully sixty per cent of the tobacco raised in this vicinity the past season is already contracted for by the dealers. The American Tobacco Co. has bought the largest percentage of the crops thus far, with a few sales going to independent buyers. The United Co., which buys the better grades only, has not dipped very deep in this year's leaf. Dealers throughout the state, who held old leaf, have found a ready sale for all they have and by spring the Wisconsin situation will present the best clean-up in many years.

TO GIVE AWAY FAMOUS SOAP

Each Housekeeper to Receive Case of Famous Palmolive Without Any Charge.

With a few days local housewives will take advantage of "Free Soap Week," at which time all leading dealers of this city will give away a case of the famous Palmolive soap to every housekeeper.

Calvin B. Johnson, President of the B. J. Johnson Soap Company of Milwaukee, Wis., makers of Palmolive and Cuticura Soaps, is the sponsor for "Free Soap Week."

Palmolive Soap, used for laundry purposes, is also to be a big factor in the "Free Soap Week." As over 1,000,000 American women are today using this soap after having discarded inferior soaps, it is expected that a great number of local housewives will take advantage of this splendid opportunity for learning the goodness of this wonderful soap, which has won deserved fame because it has successfully banished woman from straits, yellow, lined clothes after the task of washing is done.

The reason for the gift of Palmolive is that this famous product is such a great departure from ordinary soaps that it has been the cause of the fact that once a woman tries Palmolive she always keeps several cakes of it on hand. As one local housewife expressed it yesterday, "Palmolive certainly is the short cut to beauty."

The highest grade of superior oil furnished by the plant is brought from value to America and this in a large measure accounts for the leadership of Palmolive over every other soap of this class. Palmolive is the only soap and olive oils are the ingredients and "Palmolive" takes its name from them.

For the free distribution of Palmolive by local dealers, the B. J. Johnson Soap Company will send free to every woman, upon request, a copy of the famous Little Book "The Way to Beauty." Requests should be addressed to B. J. Johnson Soap Company, Milwaukee, Wis.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It seems incongruous to have to pay a physician a big fee for presenting you with a death warrant.

Many a woman who knows nothing of the art of canning and preserving keeps her family in pickle all the time.

Some persons work so hard learning to live that it kills them.

One way to get along with a husband is to cook him good dinners.

The verdant moss adheres not to the active pebble.

One way to determine if a man is lying is to note whether he acts as we do when we are convicted.

Some men mix up with trouble as naturally as a boy does with jelly cake.

As well talk about dry rain, said the cynic, as pure politics.

Going backward seems to be some people's idea of progress.

It is pleasant to believe that people will miss us when we are gone, but wisest not to put them to the test.

Back Action.

"To succeed in life you must be always on the firing line."

"Doesn't work that way with me."

"That's strange."

"It is true, though. Whenever work is slack the boss always sees me, and I am first on his firing line."

Brutal.

"I wish I knew when I am going to be married."

"You'd still have something to worry over."

"Would it?"

"Yes."

"What?"

"When you are going to be divorced."

Reward.

Hard Work.

"That so?"

"Yes."

"What's he doing?"

"Looking for a place that is sure pay and no work."

Dangerous.

"Do I?"

"Yes."

"Well, what of it?"

"You know the skeleton is shy and nervy."

"So do I."

"You do? Then why don't you be optimistic?"

"Much experience will not permit me."

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Janesville readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Don's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, 1020 W. Bluff St., Janesville, Wis., says: "It is with pleasure that I recommend Don's Kidney Pills, complaint, but since using Don's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Co., I have enjoyed much better health. I hope that my statement will lead other kidney sufferers to try Don's Kidney Pills." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

When Mrs. O'Brien was interviewed on September 23, 1910, she added to the above: "I am still glad to say a word in praise of Don's Kidney Pills. Occasionally during the past two years when I have needed a kidney medicine, I have taken this remedy and the results have always been satisfactory."

III.—Pure Food In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

It should be remembered that hygiene, like charity, begins at home. It is proper to urge upon the government the enactment of pure food laws and a thorough enforcement of the same, but the household government should also be vigilant in the matter of selecting foods and keeping them pure in the interval before they are eaten. It should also be borne in mind that pure food can be rendered poisonous by bad cooking and that the conditions under which food is eaten may render the finest materials either unwholesome or positively harmful.

Food should be selected with due regard to the appetites and tastes of the family, so far as such tastes are not

mal and reasonable. People fall into strange habits with regard to food, and if such habits lead to an ill balanced diet they should be corrected. For example, milk, eggs and beefsteak all consumed at the same meal show a lack of the sense of proportion as well as of food values. A variety of foods all of the same class indicates lack of resource and ingenuity on the part of the housewife or steward and may lead to much digestive trouble, not to speak of graver ills, and ruined dispositions.

Food for each meal, therefore, should be selected with a due regard to its palatability, digestibility and nourishing properties. Remember that a steady diet must contain proteins, carbohydrates (sugars, starches) and fats; also minerals. Milk contains all of these elements and taken in sufficient quantity will support life, but it is not a very desirable food for the healthy adult who can eat a mixed diet. Meat, poultry, game, fish and the leguminous vegetables (peas, beans, lentils, etc.) are rich in protein. Potatoes, cereals and many vegetables contain carbohydrates. Fats are supplied by butter, fat of meat, lard, etc. The various minerals required are found in the food constituting a mixed diet, and in addition common salt (which is not a salt, by the way, but a compound of sodium and chlorine) is taken freely for seasoning purposes.

Right here it may be stated that salt is usually taken in excess. One easily falls into the habit of taking a little more salt until ordinary and proper quantities fail to tickle the palate. In cases of chronic disease a salt free diet is often beneficial, and it is probable that most of us eat far more salt than is good for us.

An effort should be made to combine all of the elements above mentioned in the daily dietary, varying the bill of fare so that each meal may possess some attraction of novelty and provide a normal stimulus to digestion. According to one authority the ratio of nitrogen to carbon should be as 1 to 15. It will be observed that a large excess of vegetables or carbohydrate food is required to maintain this balance. The general rule may be followed, therefore, of meat about once a day and certainly not oftener than twice, nitrogenous vegetables, such as peas and beans, at meals where poultry, game or light meat portion is served; salads and green vegetables to accompany heavy meat portions.

Fresh Food the Safest.

Some families insist their wonderful digestive mechanism with a steady diet of delicatessen atrocities or innutritious canned foods when a little more energy and ingenuity would enable them to secure a meal of fresh, nutritious and appetizing food. The tendency to run to the pantry for a can of sardines or salmon, instead of cooking a chop or fresh fish or providing nutritious cold meats or salads, is responsible for a certain amount of American dyspepsia.

Some one has said that "a chafing dish is a frying pan that has got into good society." We boldly maintain that the frying pan has no business in good society.

Greasy fried foods will continue to "upset" the digestion of countless Americans until natural selection has eliminated the frying pan users. "Out of the frying pan into the fire" is a good axiom. The food prepared in the frying pan would better go into the fire than into our stomachs, where it is very likely to set up a fire in the shape of acute or chronic indigestion. If you must fry, make it a "dry" fry. Not only is it difficult for the gastric juice to penetrate and act upon food that is thickly coated with grease, but an excess of fat spread over the lining of the stomach retards the secretion of gastric juice.

Protection of Food.

The article of food most likely to be contaminated by disease germs is milk. The bureau of animal industry has formulated fifty rules for the guidance of milk dealers or dairymen. People who keep their own cows would do well to secure a set of these rules. Emphasized, they prescribe cleanliness and care in the handling of milk as well as proper treatment, housing and feeding of cows. Scrupulous care should be exercised in keeping clean all utensils in which milk is used. Milk from a doubtful source should be boiled or pasteurized before use. Milk preserved with formalin or other chemicals should not be used. Iceboxes should be regularly cleaned with hot soda solution or strong solution of soda. Ice often contains germs and spores which multiply as soon as they get in a warm temperature.

Food should never be exposed to contact with flies, insects, rats, mice, etc., as these pests often act as germ carriers. Nothing is so harrowing to the soul of a modern physician as a kitchen filled with buzzing flies while food is left standing around, inviting these germ carriers to alight and promenade.

Cats and dogs should not be allowed in the kitchen, and the less they are in the house the better. They are excellent germ carriers.

Food Adulterants.

Many food adulterants have little influence on health, except in so far as they substitute inert or unappetizing material for that which is nourishing and of appetizing flavor. Other adulterants, however, are directly injurious because of their chemical effect.

Some of the more common adulterants are as follows: Milk.—Water has probably been used over since there was a milkman; harmful by decreasing nutritive value. Various preservatives, as salicylic acid, formalin, boric acid, are also used and are injurious.

Butter.—Sometimes adulterated with other fats, which possibly render it less digestible.

Lard.—Cottonseed oil is the most commonly used adulterant.

Canned Vegetables.—Salts of copper and zinc are often used to impart a brilliant green color. The normal color for canned peas, beans, etc., is a dull green. The brilliant hue varies should be avoided, as they may contain sufficient copper to prove unwholesome.

Jellies, Jams, etc.—Aniline dyes are often used to give bright colors. Such preservatives are open to suspicion in exact proportion to the brilliancy of the coloring. Preservatives are also used, as boric acid, salicylic acid and benzoic acid.

Beer.—Salicylic acid.

Temperance Drinks.—Aniline dyes.

Coffee.—Clay, spices, prune stones, cocoanut shells.

Olives.—Cottonseed oil.

Meat, Poultry and Fish.—Borax and other preservatives.

Many of the coloring matters, preservatives and adulterants are not prejudicial to health, but unless their presence is stated the public is victimized and cannot exercise the right of choice as to whether it will drink raspberry soda containing enough aniline dye to the glassful to color a piece of flannel five inches square or go thirsty.

Digestibility of Foods.

Undigested food may be far more injurious than many of the adulterants or preservatives above mentioned. It is wise, therefore, to give some thought to the relative digestibility of various classes of food, especially if one's occupation is sedentary.

Pork.—Whether fresh or in sausages or other form, pork is indigestible and therefore inferior in nutritive value. Furthermore, it is liable to contain dangerous parasites, "trichina spiralis" or the eggs of the tapeworm. Pork should not be eaten except in the form of bacon or ham. If compelled to eat it, cook it thoroughly.

The following is a list of foods in the order of their digestibility. It should be remembered that this list holds good for the average individual. Some persons have strange antipathies or idiosyncrasies against certain articles of food, which they cannot for that reason digest.

Roast mutton, sweetbreads, boiled chicken, venison, soft boiled eggs, new-toasted cheese, roast fowl, turkey, partridge and pheasant, lamb, wild duck, oysters, periwinkles, omelet, tripe, boiled sole, haddock, skate, trout, perch, roast beef, boiled beef, rump steak, roast veal, boiled veal, rabbit, salmon, mackerel, herring, pilchard, sprat, hard boiled and fried eggs, pigeon, hare, duck, goose, fried fish, roast and boiled pork, heart, liver, kidney, lobster, salted fish, crab.

Nat, too, was shaken. In his heart he knew there was justification for her indifference, truth in what she had said. And he was heartbroken for her. He got up unsteadily and put a gentle hand upon her shoulder.

"Why, Betty?"

A dry sob interrupted him. He pulled himself together and forced his voice to a tone of confidence. "Just be a little patient, dear. I'm sure things will be better with us soon. Just a little more patience; that's all. Why, there was a gentleman here this morning from New York city talking about an invention of mine."

The girl moved restlessly, shaking off his hand, "Invention!" she echoed bitterly. "Oh, father! Everybody knows they're no good! You've been wasting time on 'em ever since I can remember, and you've never made a dollar out of one yet."

He bowed to the truth of this, then again braced up bravely. "But this gentleman seemed quite interested. He's over to the Higelow House now. I think I'll step over and have a talk with him."

"You'd much better go and have a talk with Blinky Lockwood," she told him brutally. "He's waiting for you at the bank and said he wasn't going to wait after 12 o'clock neither!"

"Well, perhaps you're right. I'll go there. It's after 12, but—" He started to get his hat and stopped with an exclamation. "Why, Nat! I didn't know you'd get back!"

Duncan was at the back of the store clearing the last remnants of the old stock from the shelves. "Yes," he said pleasantly, without turning. "I've been here some time cleaning up the cellar to make room for the stuff that's coming in. I came upstairs just a moment ago, but you were so busy talking you didn't notice me."

He paused, swept the empty shelves with a calculating glance and came out around the end of the counter. "Everything's in tiptop shape," he said. "I checked up the bill of lading myself, and there's not a thing missing, not a bit of breakage. Mr. Graham," he continued, dropping a gentlemanly nod on the old man's shoulder, "you're going to have the finest drug store in the state within six months. With the stuff that Sherry has sent us we can make Sothem & Lee look like 65 cents on the dollar. We're going to make things hum in this old shop, and don't you forget it!"

He laughed lightly, with a note of encouragement. But he avoided Graham's eyes even as he did Betty's. He could not meet the pitiful look of the former, any more than that stare of hostility and defiance in the latter.

"It's good of you, my boy," Graham quavered. "I—but I'm afraid I won't."

"Now don't say that!" Duncan interposed firmly. "And don't let me keep you. I think you said you were going out on business? And I'll be busy enough right here."

And, without exactly knowing how it had come about, Graham found him-

FACE AND HEAD AN AWFUL SIGHT

Eruption Broke Out when 2 Weeks Old—Itched So He Could Not Sleep—Hair All Felled Out—Cuticura Cured Him.

"I wish to have you accept this testimonial, as Cuticura did so much for my baby. At the age of two weeks his head began to break out with great sores and by the time he was two months his face and head were a awful sight. I consulted a doctor, who said it was not a skin disease which the baby would soon get over. But he seemed to get worse and I called another doctor. His opinion seemed to be that the baby had a bad case of eczema. He said that if I did not do a bit of good, a friend advised me to take him to the hospital, which I did. Two doctors there gave me medicine in liquid form. It did him no good.

"Nearly every day I would read a testimonial in regard to Cuticura and my wife thought she would try it. I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap and after using these he was entirely cured. Before Cuticura cured him he could not sleep, as his face and head would itch so. What he had all that time but soon he had a nice head of hair and his face was perfectly clear. It is now nearly five years since he was cured and there has been no sign of the eruption returning. Chas. H. Evans, 81 Flat 8A, Somerville, Mass., April 19, 1910."

A single set of Cuticura Soap and Ointment will cure you if you use it the most economical treatment for eruptions of the skin and scalp. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Mfrs., Boston, Mass. "Cuticura" does not harm the skin or cause itching.

self in the street, stumbling downward, toward the bank.

When he had gone Duncan would have returned to the shelves for a final redding up. He desired least of all things an encounter with Betty in her present frame of mind. With a sudden movement she threw herself in front of Duncan.

"So you were listening?"

"I'm sorry," he said uncomfortably. "I didn't mean to hear anything."

She looked away, shaking with passion. "You just better believe it!"

"But," he went on quickly, "you don't hate your father, too, do you, Miss Graham?"

"What do you mean by that, Mr. Duncan?"

"I mean," he said, faltering, "I'm going to give you a bit of advice. Don't you talk to your father again the way you did just now."

"Well, you ain't no!" she cried savagely. "You ain't no! Understand that? When I want advice from you I'll ask for it. Until I do you let me alone."

"Very well," he replied so calmly that she lost her bearings for a moment. And inevitably this, emphasizing as it did all that she resented most in him—his education, wit, address, his advantages of every sort—only served further to infuriate the child.

"Oh, I know why you talk that way!" she said, rubbing her poor little hands together.

"Do you?" he asked in wonder. "Yes, I do!"

Suddenly she found words—poverty stricken words, it's true, but the best she had wherewith to express herself. And for a little they flowed from her lips, a scolding, scathing torrent. "It's because you go to church all the time and try to look like a saint and—and try to make out you're too religious for anything and like to hear yourself givin' Christian advice to poor miserable sinners like me. You think that's just too lovely of you. That's why you said it. If you want to know, folks wonder what you're doing here, don't they? Guess you know that, and like it too. It makes 'em look at you and talk about you, and that's what you like. I could tell 'em. You're only here to show off your good clothes and your finger nails and the way you part your hair and—and all the other things you do that nobody in New York would pay any attention to."

"A pretty good guess at that," he acknowledged candidly.
